Description: With an ever-growing number of industries becoming global in scope, managers are being increasingly challenged to manage firms with a global perspective. The course of “Global Strategy” seeks to provide students with the skills, knowledge and sensitivity required to attain and maintain sustainable competitive advantage within a global environment. This course highlights the following topics: motivations of going global, choices among various entry strategies, political risk in global businesses, and coordination and control of globally-distributed operations. Case discussions are adopted in the course.

Description: There are four Executive Forums in the EMBA program, targeting development of an executive mindset, which open and close each academic year. This second forum focuses on applied strategic and critical decision making in the context of the functional skills acquired in the core. The concept of strategic decision making and critical reasoning is built around the premise that executives can provide superior value to their stakeholders--customers, employees, shareholders, board members, and regulators--through critical reasoning, superior strategic decision making, and implementation. It involves quantitative reasoning, self-analysis, and an eye toward the decision process.
