Cinema and Media Studies is an interdisciplinary program that focuses on the history, analysis, and theorization of film and other technologically driven visual media, including television, video art, the Internet, and expanded cinema.

Broader survey courses introduce students to the history of moving images and to the fundamentals of cinematic and media analysis, while advanced seminars focus on particular movements, concepts, and themes across specific periods and geographic areas.

The Cinema and Media Studies minor is housed in the Department of Art History (https://qa.rice.edu/programs-study/departments-programs/humanities/art-history/#header).

Minor
- Minor in Cinema and Media Studies (https://qa.rice.edu/programs-study/departments-programs/humanities/cinema-media-studies/cinema-media-studies-minor/)

Cinema and Media Studies does not currently offer an academic program at the graduate level.

CMST 204 - INTRODUCTION TO MEDIA STUDIES
Short Title: INTRODUCTION TO MEDIA STUDIES
Department: Cinema and Media Studies
Grade Mode: Standard Letter
Course Type: Lecture
Distribution Group: Distribution Group I
Credit Hours: 3
Restrictions: Enrollment is limited to Undergraduate, Undergraduate Professional or Visiting Undergraduate level students.
Course Level: Undergraduate Lower-Level
Description: Our world is saturated with media. But what does that mean for us? This course explores the study of media in two ways. First, it introduces students to a range of theoretical perspectives on the role of media within society. Second, it guides students through the analysis of different forms of media, including social, broadcast, print, journalistic, and digital. This course pays special attention to how dynamics of class, race, gender, and generation affect media’s production and consumption. By the end of the semester, students will have developed a more comprehensive and deeper understanding of how media shape our lives.
