The Department of Modern and Classical Literatures and Cultures (MCLC) houses the French Studies program, offering courses on such topics as the legacy of courtly literature, French philosophy since the Enlightenment, sex and race in the French Atlantic, notions of the 'feminine' since the French Revolution, and social issues in contemporary France. The focus of the program is highly interdisciplinary, engaging not just literature and language, but also gender and race, film and visual art, history and medicine, philosophy and critical theory. Students in the program may pursue the BA degree with a major in French Studies. The department also offers a minor in French Studies.

The majority of courses are offered entirely in French but some courses are also offered in English (some of these in collaboration with the other majors offered by the Modern and Classical Literatures and Cultures Department).
