The Religion department’s undergraduate major is built to be as flexible as possible so that students may pursue individual interests and interdisciplinary goals. The major provides students with the opportunity to explore mainline religious traditions and marginal/repressed religious currents within multicultural and transnational contexts. Students will gain religious literacy while studying the historical, social, cultural, psychological, philosophical, and cognitive dynamics of religion and religious experience.

The department also offers an undergraduate minor for students who wish to master a core body of basic knowledge about the study of religion and have the opportunity to get a broad overview of the study of Religion as a field which is outside their major focus of study at Rice.

The department is well-known for its graduate program in the study of Religion which provides students with the opportunity to apprentice with premier faculty and tailor their program of study to their interests. While vibrant coursework in traditional religions is offered, the department is especially known for an emphasis on heterodoxy and multiculturalism. As part of its graduate program, the Religion department offers a Master of Arts and a PhD degree. Additionally, the Certificate in Gnosticism, Esotericism, and Mysticism (GEM) is an extra graduate-level credential the department offers to degree-seeking graduate students.
