Policies for the BA Degree with a Major in Political ScienceTransfer Credit

For Rice University's policy regarding transfer credit, see Transfer Credit (ga.rice.edu/undergraduate-students/academic-policies-procedures/transfer-credit). Some departments and programs have additional restrictions on transfer credit. The Office of Academic Advising maintains the university's official list of transfer credit advisors on their website: <http://oaa.rice.edu>. Students are encouraged to meet with their academic program's transfer credit advisor when considering transfer credit possibilities.

Departmental Transfer Credit Guidelines

Students pursuing the major in Political Science should be aware of the following departmental transfer credit guidelines:

- Requests for transfer credit will be considered by the program director (and/or the program's official transfer credit advisor) on an individual case-by-case basis.
- Transfer credit coursework from online-only courses cannot be used to count towards the major.

For additional information, please see the Political Science website: <https://politicalscience.rice.edu/>.

Opportunities for the BA Degree with a Major in Political Science
Academic Honors

The university recognizes academic excellence achieved over an undergraduate's academic history at Rice. For information on university honors, please see Latin Honors (ga.rice.edu/undergraduate-students/honors-distinctions/university) (summa cum laude, magna cum laude, and cum laude) and Distinction in Research and Creative Work (ga.rice.edu/undergraduate-students/honors-distinctions/university). Some departments have department-specific Honors awards or designations.

Departmental Honors Program

Admission to the honors program requires the approval of the department's Director of Undergraduate Studies. The faculty member supervising the thesis must have a full-time appointment in the Department of Political Science. During the first semester of the two-semester program, students take one reading course that provides them with a basis for drawing up a thesis prospectus. During the second semester, students write their honors thesis. An electronic copy of the thesis must be sent to the Director of Undergraduate Studies. Students may not combine the two honors courses into one semester. Those who successfully complete the honors program may substitute it for one of the seminars required for the major. Failure to complete the second semester of the honors program will result in loss of credit for the first semester of the honors program.

Work for the Honors Program must be original. It cannot be taken from other courses at Rice or other institutions. This includes using the same work for another honors program (i.e. using the same work for honors in political science and another discipline). If a student has a question about what is permitted, the student should consult the Director of Undergraduate Studies. This consultation should take place early in the first semester of the honors program.

Alternatively, students may earn honors in political science by successfully completing the Rice University Honors Program (RUSP), HONS 470/HONS 471. In addition to successfully completing this program, the student must complete a research project in political science, and the student must be supervised by a full-time faculty member in the political science department. See also Honors Programs. (ga.rice.edu/undergraduate-students/honors-distinctions/programs)

Directed Readings Courses

Directed readings courses are intended for students who have completed a substantial number of political science courses and who seek to explore a subject not covered in regular courses. They are available only if an appropriate faculty member agrees to supervise. The faculty member supervising a directed readings course must have a full-time appointment in the Department of Political Science. The student may not take more than one readings course from him or her. Students should submit a brief, one-page description of the work to be conducted in the readings course (including the name of the faculty supervisor) to the department's Director of Undergraduate Studies no later than two weeks into the semester in which they intend to take the course. Readings courses do not count toward the department's distribution requirement.
